WHAT IS FANDOM?

Fan-dom

noun

the state or condition of being a fan of someone or something.

"my 17 years of sports fandom"

the fans of a particular person, team, fictional series, etc. regarded collectively as a community or subculture.

"the Breaking Bad fandom"

Me with a Tardis at DragonCon 2019

THE DOCTOR WHO FANDOM

- Doctor Who is a British TV show that has been airing since the 1960s, depicting the adventures of a time traveling alien and their companions they pick up along the way
- Fans are called "Whovians"

• This project focuses on one specific aspect of fandom: Fanfiction

FANFICTION

- Fanfiction = Fan created works of fiction!
- Diverse and multifaceted
- Legality? (infamously: Anne Rice)

THE QUESTION...

What topics are fanfiction authors writing about in the Doctor Who fandom that resonate with readers?

PULLED IN A NEW FIC

TITLE

Earthly Companion

SUMMARY

Following the departure of Amy and Rory Pond, The Doctor's grief compels him to make a terribly irrational decision: use the Chameleon Arch to become human, and forget the pain of all that he's lost.

It's been decades since Rose Tyler discovered that she can't age. Through the power of Bad Wolf, she finds herself torn through the void, and pulled back to her original universe. She lands in Victorian London, picks up a job as a governess, and befriends a local recluse named Matthew Pond. He's a bit odd and far too young, but she can't help but feel drawn to him.

MY OPINION

TOPIC 7
Rose as Bad Wolf

NEXT STEPS...

- Subtopic modeling within the larger topics
- Understanding the fics in the smaller topics (seems to be crossovers)
- More comprehensive cleaning merging bigrams
- See if other topic model paradigms work better
- Better dataset: full stories, remove crossovers etc.

FINAL THOUGHTS

- Required extensive domain knowledge
- Freeform text is difficult to process
- Interpretable topics are hard to create
- Lots of manual work, not easily scalable to other fandoms

THANK YOU!
